What is TEAMS?

TEAMS is a competitive Silicon Couloir program formed to accelerate the development of entrepreneurs in the Teton region, and further the mission of Silicon Couloir: to align entrepreneurship with community vision to promote a diverse economy and healthy environment for current and future generations.

How does it work?

TEAMS is powered by volunteer mentors who are excited by innovation, ideas and problem-solving. Mentors are overseen and supported in their mentoring role by the Silicon Couloir staff and Mentoring Executive Team. Relationships between mentors and entrepreneurs are formed based on the needs of the entrepreneur and the interests of the available mentors. All mentoring sessions are free of charge.

Each venture is assigned a team of mentors with a lead mentor. Every venture is unique in its status, needs, trajectory, and priorities. Silicon Couloir provides new mentors, with training, and a structured meeting framework to guide each individual session and honor your time.

Guiding Principles

- The best interests of ventures will always be promoted.
- The Silicon Couloir board, staff and TEAMS mentors will maintain strict confidentiality over any proprietary information entrusted to them by entrepreneurs.
- Mentors will serve as volunteers.
- Mentoring services will be offered without discrimination.
- Silicon Couloir will oversee the formation of mentor-venture relationships.
- The choice of mentors will be based on best available candidates for the entrepreneur's needs.
- Mentors may not solicit employment by or invest in a venture for which they mentor.
- Mentors must recuse themselves from judging a contest in which any of their mentee ventures participate.
